THE NEWTONIAN

• 1931 •

Annual of Newton High School
Newton, Massachusetts

VOLUME TWENTY-TWO
EDITED BY THE CLASS OF NINETEEN THIRTY-ONE

Foreword

IN putting before you this twenty-second volume of The Newtonian, it is the desire of the entire staff that this book will create for you a ready reminder of your years at Newton High School. We have essayed to portray and represent a true cross section of our school life in its entirety, to bring to you a clearer picture of every phase of it.

We have followed last year's scheme in continuing the Feature Section, omitted for several years, with the hope that while much amusement is derived from it, the readers will be capable of mixing the sublime with the ridiculous and truly appreciate the more serious pages representing the real objects of our strivings: classes, studies, athletics, and clubs. This year's book differs from its predecessors in a few, but important changes, and we hope improvements, as to the paper, heading of each page, and the arrangement of the senior pictures.

This year our motto has been "quality rather than quantity," and we are proud to show you these pages, exemplifying the best of both teachers' and pupils' combined efforts. To each member of the faculty and school who has so willingly and unselfishly assisted in the production of this year book, the editor extends her deep and sincere thanks and appreciation. The culmination of their efforts lies before you; may the reading of these pages bring back the happiest memories of your years at Newton.

History of the Senior Class

By VIRGINIA WEED

THE last golden leaf in the brief history of our school life has been turned. Recorded in its pages are the changes in our attitudes, outlooks, and views, since we first opened the cover and perused this volume of high school life.

Now we are closing our four-year history, and we are opening the great book of life. Before we shut it forever behind us, let us go over again the thumb-worn pages of our past years.

In the first chapter we elected as officers Norman Adams, president; Charles Bassett, vice-president; William Dunn, secretary; and William Perry, treasurer. We read how Cynthia Jump made us famous by winning the Freshman-Sophomore Prize-Speaking Contest, when she competed against seven sophomores. We enjoy again the glories of the freshman debate that introduced us to the world of oratory.

At the opening of the second chapter we read that our officers were George Hildreth, president; George Defren, vice-president; Florence Bell, secretary; and Virginia Josselyn, treasurer. The sophomore girls won the cup for sports; and many names, famous now in athletics, then began their climb. Read how successful was our sophomore dance, and how Cynthia Jump again won the prize-speaking contest. In both years, members from our class have captured prizes in the Shakespearian contest, which is for the freshman and sophomore classes.

And the paragraph about clubs? Oh yes — Betty Tucker was president, and Cynthia Jump, secretary, of the Alpha Beta; Richard Wit was president, and Betty Tucker, secretary, of the Freshman-Sophomore Drama Club; and Richard Lawrence was president of the new Aviation Club.

How quickly read is the history of the junior class, though it seems less remote to us. As officers we had George Hildreth, president; Perry Elrod, vice-president; Florence Bell, secretary; and Albert Guzzi, treasurer. Robert Bell and Cynthia Jump were elected clerk and treasurer respectively of the Associates. Betty Tucker was secretary of the Drama Club; Helen Dearing, secretary of the Social Studies Club; and Natalie Smith was president of the Home Economics Club. On the Newtonite we were represented by Lois Stafford, who was editor of the copy staff.

Many letters were awarded to athletes — both boys and girls. The most successful dance of that year was our own Feminine Follies, when a record breaking crowd was collected under the chairmanship of Mary Kibbe, while the Techtonians supplied the music.

Now we turn to the last chapter; and the most glorious one. There is not one senior who has not tried to fill this year with achievements.

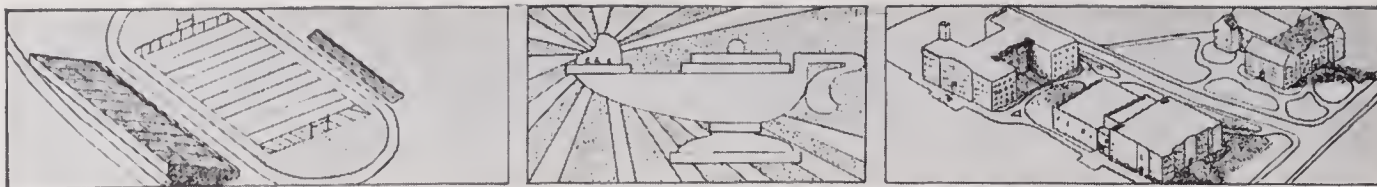

As officers of the Associates we have had Reginald Bankart, president; Warren Colby, boys' vice-president; Cynthia Jump, clerk; and Albert Guzzi, treasurer. As officers of the senior class we have Gilbert Chandler, president; Faith Durrell, first vice-president; Leroy Benoit, second vice-president; Jean Wilson, secretary; and Albert Guzzi, treasurer.

One of the outstanding school bodies is the National Honor Society in which several honored seniors have attained membership. It has as its president Richard Bailey. But we turn to the pages of social events now; how clear are the memories of the Senior Harvest Hop that opened our social season. Under the chairmanship of Elizabeth Drowne the dance was carried out successfully. Next came the Senior Play, "Green Stockings" with Miss Nute as coach. The cast included, besides Cynthia Jump and Dick Kemper, who played the leading roles, Janice Leavitt, Lilla Cavanaugh, Virginia Weed, Dorothy Drew, Sewall Logan, Richard Shaw, Gilbert Chandler, Kenneth Young, Douglas Chalmers, and Arthur Williams.

The Senior Talent Assembly, produced by Faith Durrell's committee, gave us an entertaining hour. Cynthia Jump and Gilbert Chandler played host and hostess in an informal scene which called for a great variety of ability.

Now we turn to the literary responsibilities which the students themselves carry on. On the Newtonite, due to the efforts of Lois Stafford, who is editor-in-chief, and Marion Hicks as business manager, a successful year has been completed, at the end of which the most deserving of the staff were presented with charms.

Betty Tucker was the first girl in the history of Newton High to be selected as Editor-in-Chief of the Newtonian; Richard Lawrence is carrying on with her in the office of Business Manager.

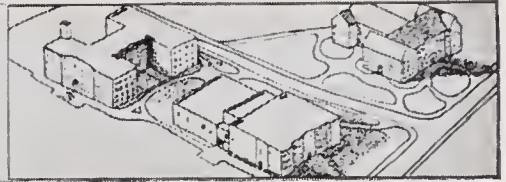

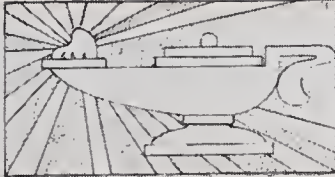

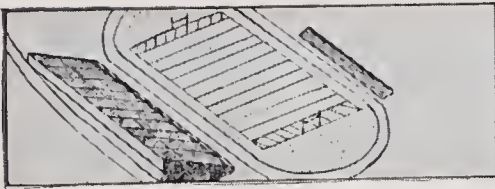

As all the members who carried off the honors in the prize-speaking contest were seniors, let us spend a few moments reading about it. Katherine Plakias and Reginald Bankart won the cups for the speakers, while Margaret Fairfield and Virginia Weed won the loving cups for the prizes in the essay and poetry contests respectively.

Now we read about the middle of the year when we come to the plans for graduation and all the celebrating connected with it. In charge of the dance is Warren Colby, while Donald Bowen is chairman of the banquet committee.

We turn once again to the page devoted to athletics, and its many honors awarded to our stars. Milton Green is this year's star track athlete. On the football team William Duane, Perry Elrod, Bernard Litchfield, John Shorten, and Harold Strombom received their letters. Basketball is still growing in popularity. Letter men of this year are: Hyman Yanco, Perry Elrod, Richard Bailey, Robert Seaver, Richard Shaw, George Jones, and Bernard Doucette.

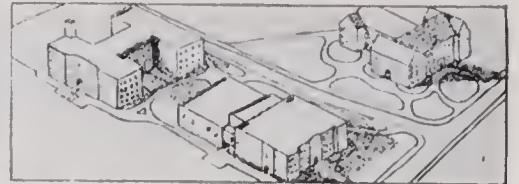

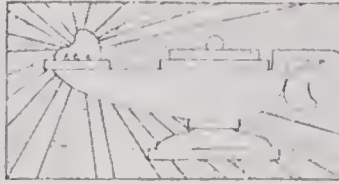

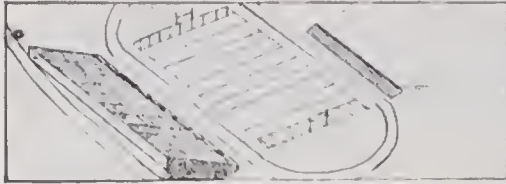

Hockey letters for the girls went to: Elizabeth Street, Jean Wilson, Hilda Kirby, Catherine Martin, Betty Tucker, Edith Wheeler, Barbara Goodrich, Barbara Fuller, and Mary Kibbe.

Here our four-year volume signs its last "Finis." Four years of poignant memories are crowded within its covers. As we scatter out into the world, often we will turn back and read over these closely written pages so dear to our hearts.

History of the Junior Class

By MADELEINE M. COLLINS

EAGERLY hurrying along, anxious to become members of the great high school body, the freshman class of 1932 assembled almost three years ago to start its career at Newton.

As soon as they became accustomed to the strange ways at the high school, the school's "babies" were allowed to enter into politics. They displayed unusual ability in this matter, by electing Ralph Bixby for the class president, Betty Benson as vice-president, Eliot Robinson in the post of secretary, and Phyllis Baker as treasurer. With these as a crew to pilot them successfully throughout the year, the freshmen advanced to an enviable position. Jack Malley won the boy's prize in the Freshman-Sophomore Prize-Speaking Contest; both boys' and girls' athletic teams made a fine showing, and the class was well represented in other school activities.

The following year these students — for they were now sophomores — again gathered within the portals of Newton, a little less eagerly, perhaps, but that was merely because they felt the necessity of displaying their sophistication.

As before, the elections took place in the early fall. The different officers, no less able, were Stuart DeBard, president; Phyllis Baker, vice-president; Elizabeth Ellis, secretary; and Thurman Philoon, treasurer.

Two members of the class of 1932, Phoebe Coombs and Harold Banks, won the Freshman-Sophomore Prize-Speaking Contest. The Sophomore Dance on St. Valentine's Day was as great a success as was the Freshman Party the preceding year.

The class out-did itself in regard to extra activities, for this year the sophomore girls won the cup presented to the class having the largest per cent of girls in sports; numerals were also awarded to the sophs. The boys, too, were prominent in athletics, many being on the various junior varsity or intermediate teams, and a few, especially skilled, made the varsity teams in football and baseball.

At last the third year opened out before the class of '32, beckoning it into the sacred precincts of the upper class. At the beginning of the year, elections took place as usual. Some of the officers elected, however, proved to be ineligible, so in March the list was as follows: John Malley, president; Phyllis Baker, vice-president; Elizabeth Ellis, secretary; and Jane Riley, treasurer. On the executive board were Eleanor Rhodes, Phoebe Coombs, Arnold Sefort, Priscilla Swan, and Stuart DeBard. In December, the ever popular "Feminine Follies" was sponsored by the juniors and was a great success.

Many of the juniors immediately took the opportunities offered to them of becoming club members, and several of them held offices in the different clubs.

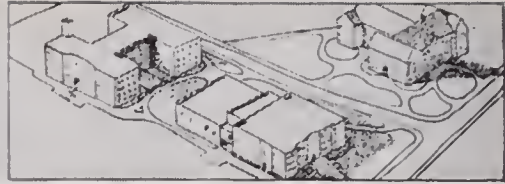

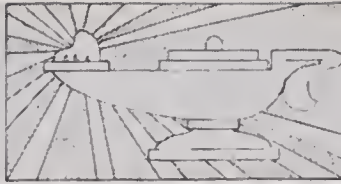

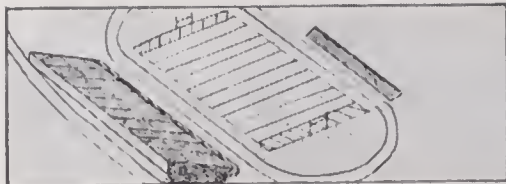

This year, a large number of boys of the class of '32 made the varsity teams in football, hockey, basketball, and track, and won their letters. Although the baseball, tennis, and golf teams have not, up to this time, been organized, there is no question but what here, too, juniors will shine. Not to be outdone by the boys, the girls have tried to do their share to keep up the standard of their class in athletics, for two made the varsity hockey team.

The hero, the villain, and the comedians of the Drama Club Play, "Arms and the Man," were all members of this illustrious class. Paul Leahy, David Guberman, Thurman Philoon, and Jack Malley were the actors.

The happy years that the class of 1932 has enjoyed were over-shadowed by two unfortunate accidents which happened in the past year. These were the sad deaths of two of its most popular and well-liked members, Flora Lotz and John Barry. Their classmates have sincerely missed them.

With only one milestone left to pass, the members of '32 are spurred on by the fine examples they have seen before them and by the excellent standing which they, themselves, have attained, to climax their remarkable career by their graduation in a "blaze of glory." Good luck to them all!

Sophomore Class History

SOPHOMORE CLASS! "Hail, Hail, The gang's all here." — Daytonians, Warrenites, and Senior High Freshmen, all banded together in the unique class of 1933. "This is quite the class" as some people might say. It gathered one rainy morning in September. The Junior High people were not familiar with Senior High ways and the Freshmen were somewhat proud of their new importance as sophomores.

OFFICERS? Yes we have some good ones: president, James Cotton; vice-president, James Leach; secretary, Joseph Manning; treasurer, Stephen Baily. We were sorry to lose Robert Dunn, our first secretary, who left school. We feel quite confident, however, that Joseph Manning can fill this place. The officers chose the Executive Committee as follows: Marjorie Brown, David McKillop, Richard McEldowney, Carolyn Raye, and Rosalind Bigelow.

PARTY. Even with the business depression the sophomores sponsored a dance. It was held on Friday the 13th of February and was a success in every way. Even some of the juniors and seniors condescended to attend. We claim the unique distinction of not having the gymnasium decorated with palms as has been the custom for some time. The substitute was red and white crepe paper.

HONORS IN ATHLETICS! We have four men on the varsity baseball team. We were well represented in intermediate and junior varsity football, hockey, and basketball. The girls won second place in the gym meet, so we feel that we have had our share of honors.

ORGANIZATIONS? Yes, we have some splendid ones. Many of our classmates have had an active interest in Alpha Beta, the English Club for lower classmen. The Neophytes has been a flourishing organization this past year. Our Christmas play testifies to our success behind the foot-lights. Thanks to Mr. Spaulding our sophomore musical organizations have had a profitable and pleasant year.

MARKS. The class as a whole had a good academic record. We have held second place on the scholarship roll during the entire school year. Marks don't always show future success; however, they do show conscientious faithfulness to the job at hand.

OBSERVATIONS! 1. There is a fine spirit in the class of 1933. 2. There is a friendly feeling between sophomores and their teachers. 3. There are sophomores on three of the major athletic teams. 4. A sophomore broke the thirty-yard dash record and another one the three-lap run record. 5. Sophomores are prominent in the Neophytes, Alpha-Beta, and other clubs to which sophomores can belong.

RILEY. It is only fitting that we mention our class adviser, Miss Riley. Miss Riley is a person who is willing to help any of the sophomores, whether it be in selection of a college, or finding a job, or planning a program, or making out a study schedule, or planning the class party. She has pledged her very best efforts to the class of 1933!

END, — yes, as sophomores, but also Encore! Expect us again next year as upper classmen and juniors.

Follies of 1934

(A Review)

Presented by JOSEPH CLEMENT
President of Class of 1934

THIS is going to be a four-act play. Each act takes a year in the writing and acting. The curtain has rung down on the first act, which has been full of thrills, as all freshman years must be. Woven into this first act, has been lots of drama, much comedy, some tragedy, and even some pathos. The members of the three other classes will be inclined to call it comedy, for no one is so funny to a "soph" as a "freshie." The freshmen, or to be more polite, the class of 1934, are like the veterans of the World War. They would not have missed the experience for anything, but they would not want to go through it again!

The opening scene was in the fall of 1930. The class gathered for its first meeting in the Assembly Hall on Monday morning, September 8. At that time they met their principal, Mr. Palmer, the assistant principal, Mr. Elicker, their class adviser, Miss Riley, and some important officers of the senior and junior classes. After this brief introduction, the real show started with much hard work. Next came the election of class officers. The results were president, Joseph Clement; vice-president, James Hunter; secretary, Theodore Cobb; treasurer, George Stone.

Then we saw the football season take the center of the stage. The tense scene of massacre in the Brookline game was interrupted between halves by the dedication of the New Dickinson Stadium. The ceremony was very impressive, and a fitting tribute was paid to one of Newton's greatest leaders of boys. As for the game — well, we will do better in the next three acts, for some of our 1934 class will be eligible to play.

Passing into the scene of holiday time, we witnessed basketball at its height, and hockey came a little later when it was too cold for other outdoor sports.

To give us a little indoor winter sport, the faculty put on a play. There is no doubt about the faculty play being a melodrama. You should have seen them fight at the old fort in "Treasure Island." It took three days to get the blood cleaned off the stage so we could go on with our show.

Winter sports have passed and now the baseball teams are playing. We have several representatives on the Junior Varsity Team. These fellows are having fine training toward the regular varsity for the next three acts.

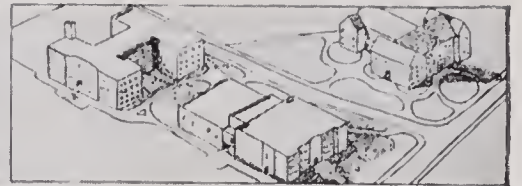

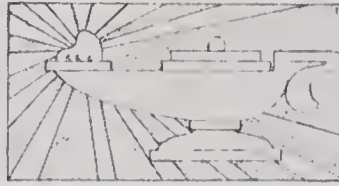

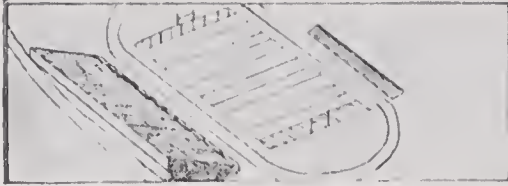

We are about to bid goodbye to our senior friends as they are ending their days in Newton High School. The end for the seniors is also the end for the freshmen, for when the curtain goes up again for the second act, we will be mighty sophomores. Our chests will swell and our heads as well, but before the curtain rings down on our freshman year, we must pass our "Finals!"

Now the scene will change for the second act.

(Act II to be presented by members of the same cast and ensemble in 1932.)

The Associates

President, REGINALD BANKART

Girls' Vice-President, HELEN ELLIS

Boys' Vice-President, WARREN K. COLBY

Clerk, CYNTHIA JUMP

Treasurer, ALBERT H. GUZZI

THE Newton High School Associates are governed by a legislature made up of representatives from every home room with five officers at its head. This body legislates on many matters that concern the student body and rules in conjunction with the faculty and an executive council on all subjects which touch directly on the welfare of the pupils. The legislature meets on the first Wednesdays of each marking period.

The legislature this year, among other things on its busy program, established several study halls in charge of students. This project was begun the previous year, but was enlarged and improved this year. Also, the three-year contract for school emblems was renewed this winter with Thomas Long & Company.

The Legislature has direct supervision over all clubs and organizations in the school. It has charge, to a large extent, of the lunchroom discipline, as well as the traffic problems. There are appointed by the chair, each year, eight standing committees which supervise the various activities. The ushers for Parents' Days are chosen from the Scholarship Roll by the Civics Board. Other projects towards which the Associates directed their attentions were the raising of money for Christmas dinners for needy families and the preservation of the grounds about the buildings.

The National Honor Society

President, RICHARD BAILEY

Vice-President, MARGARET CALLANAN

Secretary, CATHERINE MARTIN

Treasurer, WARREN COLBY

THE Newton chapter of the National Honor Society was established five years ago. It is a society corresponding to Phi Beta Kappa in the colleges and composed of the upper 15% of the senior class and the upper 5% of the junior class. The members are chosen by the faculty on the basis of the four qualities of character, scholarship, leadership, and service. The aim of the society is to recognize those who best represent the highest ideals of the school. It is not a social organization with definite activities, but renders service to the school in any way it can.

The first meeting of the year was held in the fall, under the direction of Miss Rideout, the faculty adviser. The following officers were elected: president, Richard Bailey; vice-president, Margaret Callanan; secretary, Catherine Martin; treasurer, Warren Colby. Another meeting was held in January to prepare for the ceremony of initiation of new members. The annual induction ceremony was held April 15th at an assembly composed of juniors and lower classmen who had been on the honor roll. The Rev. Mr. Herbert A. Jump, the guest speaker, delivered an address on "The Dimensions of Personality." The theme of his talk was one which every pupil could well profit by, "A person is as long as his physical health, as broad as his mental horizon, and as tall as his moral purpose."

The Newtonite

THE ninth volume of the Newtonite has been brought to a successful close under the leadership of Lois Stafford, editor-in-chief, and Mr. Lester E. Williams, Miss Robinson, and Mr. Birmingham, the faculty advisers. It has attained its two objectives, furnishing an accurate news service to every department of the school, and providing an outlet for creative writing and manifestations of student opinion. This year, as in previous years, it has maintained its standard as one of the most carefully made school newspapers in the country and again won a third rating in the contest of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

The Newtonite has consistently tried to cover every event of importance in the school. Faculty, clubs, athletics, dramatics, and all other branches of school life have been handled by a competent staff, whereas the literary and editorial pages were both made interesting by a great variety of content. One of the features of the Newtonite of 1931 was the issue edited solely by the faculty.

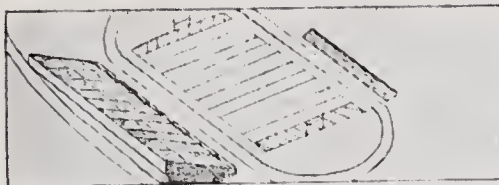

At an assembly held March 25, Newtonite charms were awarded to those members of the staff who have done exceptional service for the Newtonite.

Those who received charms were:

Lois Stafford
Marion Hicks
Bethana Rees
Cynthia Jump
Mary Kibbe
Eleanor Denham

Marguerite Russo
M. Elizabeth Avar
Elizabeth Drowne
Margaret Fairfield

The Orange Book

Faculty Adviser, CAROLINE M. DOONAN

Editor-in-Chief, BRONIUS BALKUS

THE publication of the Orange Book is annually undertaken by members of the junior class, advised and supervised by Miss Doonan and the Associates. Bronius Balkus ably managed this year's production.

The aim of the Orange Book is to provide a comprehensible guide for freshmen, and for all classes an accurate, official record of school government, traditions, personnel, and activities. Vital information is included in a copy of the school constitution and general rules for conduct and eligibility. Brief accounts of the aims and activities of clubs and athletic groups with lists of letter winners are also in the book, as well as a calendar for school events, such as class dances, plays, and motion pictures, throughout the year. Every year a new feature is added; new this year are the suggestions for budgeting study time and a list of expenditures for school events.

The chief importance of the Orange Book lies in the fact that, in cases concerning change of rules, or in any matter about which students must be informed, it is an accurate official organ.

Since the new staff has been appointed with Harry Gray as Editor-in-Chief and Vincent Wentworth as Business Manager, a publication worthy of past records may well be expected.

“Green Stockings”

“HAVE you ever heard of the old English country custom which requires an elder sister to wear green stockings at the wedding of her younger sister, if that younger sister has captured a husband first?” Our school learned all about this custom at the Senior Play, which was presented January 23 and 24 under the expert direction of Miss Helen E. Nute.

This year, the senior class chose an English comedy by A. E. W. Mason, full of clever lines and amusing situations. Poor Celia Faraday, who “had had to put them (green stockings) on twice already” was admirably played by Cynthia Jump. Colonel Smith, D. S. O., the imaginary fiance, who turned out to be very real, was Richard V. Kemper. Arthur Williams was the somewhat bewildered Mr. Faraday, whose duties as father of Celia and her sisters, Madge (Virginia Weed), Evelyn (Dorothy Drew), and Phyllis (Janice Leavitt), almost overwhelmed him. The outspoken Aunt Ida from Chicago was excellently taken by Lilla Cavanaugh, whose comedy was matched by Douglas Chalmers in the part of Admiral Grice. Sewell Logan, as Phyllis’s empty-headed fiance, Robert Tarver, was flanked by the two ornamental young men, Steele and Raleigh, played by Gilbert Chandler and Richard Shaw respectively. And, finally, the class of ’31 introduced an innovation in the form of a red-headed butler, Kenneth Young.

English Club

President, MARY KIBBE

Vice-President, CATHERINE MARTIN

Secretary, ELIZABETH KERSHAW

Treasurer, RUTH WEEKS

WITH a greatly increased membership and a new faculty adviser, Miss E. Louise Richardson, the English Club has completed another successful year with the following officers: president, Mary Kibbe; vice-president, Catherine Martin; secretary, Elizabeth Kershaw; treasurer, Ruth Weeks.

The club was most fortunate in having several fine and interesting speakers: Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, who talked on "On Behalf of Busy Idlers;" Mr. Walter M. Taylor, who explained book-reviewing; Mr. B. Floyd Rinker, whose subject was "Adventures in Life;" and Miss Savage, who spoke on "Books." The club was happy to be able to present Dr. William F. Stidger, who spoke on Abraham Lincoln, to the junior and senior classes on February 11. At other meetings the members wrote captions for the moving pictures of our school life, held a party, and were entertained by the Drama Club.

The annual Prize-Speaking Contest, under the direction of the club, was held on Friday evening, March 27, 1931, in the auditorium. Katherine Plakias and Reginald Bankart won the girls' and boys' prizes for the speaking, and Margaret Fairfield and Virginia Weed, for the essay and poetry contests respectively. The entertainment ended with a one-act play of Tarkington's, "The Trysting Place," coached by Miss Frances Thumin, with the leads taken by Catherine Martin and Frederick Kershaw. The president, Mary Kibbe, presided over the program.

The officers for next year have already been chosen, and under the guidance of Julia Harvey, as president, the prospects are very bright.

Drama Club

President, MARGARET CALLANAN

Vice-President, ELIZABETH KERSHAW

Secretary, PHOEBE COOMBS

Treasurer, ROBERT GIDDINGS

THE DRAMA CLUB has just completed its seventh successive year under the competent direction of the faculty adviser, Miss Louise Wetherbee. At the first meeting, this year's officers were elected: Margaret Callanan, president; Elizabeth Kershaw, vice-president; Phoebe Coombs, secretary; and Robert Giddings, treasurer.

The outstanding accomplishment of the season was the club's annual production, George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man." Paul Leahy admirably portrayed the "chocolate cream soldier" and Margaret Callanan, the dreamy heroine. Other members of the cast were Virginia Weed, Mary Douglass, Thurman Philoon, John Malley, David Guberman, and Richard Shaw.

A fit motto for the Drama Club might well be "A play a month," for at every meeting the members have produced one. Once again, the club entertained at the All-Club-Christmas Party with the presentation of "Dust of the Road." The one-act play, based on the old time story of Judas Iscariot, was exceedingly well done. At another meeting, a novel puppet show of a Russian farce, along with a one-act play, was presented by Curtis Beach. Later the students had the opportunity of seeing a Japanese Noh play, the drama of Japan which corresponds to the ancient Greek tragedy. Other plays given were "The Valiant" and "The Man of Destiny." In May, Elizabeth Murray coached the farce "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," by Anatole France, which afforded a merry climax to a successful year's work.

Varsity Glee Club

THIS year is the fourth season for the Varsity Glee Club, and until this year, the Glee Club has not been very active in a public way. Two years ago the members sang at an assembly and served as the choir in the Drama Club Christmas play. Last year the club was most active during the Christmas season when they sang carols at assemblies and at the faculty Christmas party. Again this year they sang carols at assemblies, the Christmas play, and the faculty party. Each year the Glee Club sings carols in the corridors on the afternoon before Christmas recess opens.

In addition, they presented one Wednesday in March a program consisting of "The Song of the Desert," "Your Land and Mine," and Holmes's famous poem, "The Chambered of Nautilus." The club will sing a solo piece at the Outdoor Concert, for the first time, this June.

The club, during these four years, has been under the able leadership of Mr. Charles B. Harrington. It has grown until it now numbers about sixty members, who are chosen at try-outs held in the fall. The Glee Club, like Orchestra and Band, is a regular sixth-hour class which meets every Wednesday at 2.30 in room 2200. The members are marked on the subject twice a year and one-half point credit is given.

Le Cercle Français

President, CYNTHIA JUMP

Vice-President, MARY DOUGLASS

Secretary, FRANCES JENNINGS

Treasurer, WALTER AMESBURY

LE CERCLE FRANÇAIS has spent a most profitable and enjoyable year with Miss Roberta Miller as adviser. The club's enrollment was about thirty-eight members, and the officers were as follows: president, Cynthia Jump; vice-president, Mary Douglass; secretary, Frances Jennings; treasurer, Walter Amesbury.

At the beginning of the year, the club presented Miss Emily Burdon with a picture which had been bought in Paris the previous summer. The program for the year has been devoted largely to the members themselves. At nearly every meeting one or more students have contributed something, such as a poem or story. These have been most interesting and worth-while. French songs have also been sung, and French games played, at many of the meetings. The faculty has been most generous in speaking to the club. Once Miss Helen White gave an enlightening talk on the châteaux of France, while Miss Burdon was guest speaker on another Thursday. At the May meeting, the members had the unusual opportunity of hearing interesting experiences which took place in a French school, told by one of the students there.

During the year the club presented twelve copies of the French dictionary "Petit Larousse" to the French department of the school.

Spanish Club

President, LEROY BENOIT

Vice-President, DORIS BAUCKMAN

Secretary, HELEN STEPHENSON

Treasurer, JEANETTE HOUGHTON

THE Spanish Club, under the direction of Mr. Argento, has had a most entertaining and instructive year. All meetings were conducted entirely in Spanish and the members feel that they have greatly benefited by the practice in conversation, the debates, and other discussions that have taken place this year.

The office of president has been well handled by Leroy Benoit. Other officers are Doris Bauckman, vice-president; Helen Stephenson, secretary; and Jeanette Houghton, treasurer. The committees are headed by Helen Landry and Theodore Wilkinson.

Spanish is not confined to Spain alone, nor to her colonies in North and West Africa, but extends to the many Latin-American countries from the southern boundary of the United States to Cape Horn. The increasing trade and commercial activities between these countries so close at hand and our own, place the Spanish language second only to that of English in the Western Hemisphere.

Social Studies Club

President, NATALIE SMITH

Vice-President, NORMAN APPLEYARD

Secretary, B. WILLIAM BALKUS

Treasurer, ROBERT HUNTER

THE Social Studies Club attempts to stimulate interest in Social Studies and promote good citizenship in the school. Members are selected from the five highest ranking students in each junior and senior social studies' class. This year the officers were as follows: president, Natalie Smith; vice-president, Norman Appleyard; secretary, Bronius W. Balkus; and treasurer, Robert Hunter. Mr. Daniel F. Koughan is the faculty adviser.

For programs during the meetings this year, the club had several speakers and motion pictures. Mr. Elicker spoke on his travels in Europe, and Mr. Paige on the school systems in Europe. The motion pictures were "A Citizen and His Government" and the Boston-Herald-Traveler film, "Reporting the World." The club has completed a year of achievement and pleasure.

The Camera Club

President, FLORENCE GUILD
Vice-President, JOHN SIMCOCK

Secretary, LILLIAN DEANS
Treasurer, JUNE CHADWICK

THIS year, even though it is only the second in the Camera Club's history, has been most successful under the guidance of Mr. Sterling Williams.

Since the purpose of the club is to interest students by increasing their knowledge and skill in photography, interesting speakers have discussed topics concerning the taking, the developing, and the printing of pictures from the time exposure to the "movies."

One of the outstanding activities of the club was the trip to Bachrach's Studio where the entire sequence from the developing of the exposed plate to the final mounting was studied. A climax to a year of achievement and pleasure was reached in the May social.

Every month the snap-shot contests have created considerable enthusiasm and have been closely contested. The subject for November was "Animals," won by William Esson. In December, Roger Anderson's picture won the prize for the contest "Nature." January yielded exceedingly clear shots from Louise McConnell, who won the contest entitled "Snow Scenes." Even though February was a disagreeable month, Corinne Boyd handed in some good pictures for first place in "Campus Shots." For March and April, the efforts of the club members were centered on the Newtonian Pictures, which composed the major project for the year.

Library Club

President, ELIZABETH TUCKER
Vice-President, JULIA HARVEY

Secretary, CATHERINE MARTIN
Treasurer, LOUISE BLOOMFIELD

THE LIBRARY CLUB was formed under the guidance of Miss Bigelow eight years ago. The purpose of the organization is to provide an outlet for the ability of girls interested in library work. The membership consists of fifteen seniors and ten juniors who are elected to the club on the basis of scholarship.

At the first meeting of the year, the following officers were elected: Elizabeth Tucker, president; Julia Harvey, vice-president; Catherine Martin, secretary; and Louise Bloomfield, treasurer.

Before the meetings, held the second Thursday of every month, are called to order, the members assist the librarian in arranging books, filing slips, and listing current topics.

The outstanding accomplishment of this season was the members' making of a card catalogue of all the works of art in the three buildings.

The club planned to go to see the play, "Elizabeth the Queen;" but as tickets were not available, a trip to the theatre was postponed. During the year, Elizabeth Kolb, chairman of the program committee, planned various types of entertainment. A Thanksgiving party provided much amusement as did all the other programs. As the new members have already been chosen, and a new program of work planned, another successful year is in view.

The Aviation Club

President, HERBERT WALLEY
Vice-President, HAROLD EVANS

Secretary, WILLIAM HODGES
Treasurer, LEROY SMITH

THE 1930-31 activities of the Aviation Club began Thursday, November 6, with the election of temporary officers and a discussion of the prospects of the year. Mr. Daniel Willard, the new faculty adviser, suggested several possibilities for future programs.

At the second meeting, the standing officers were chosen: Herbert Walley, president; Harold Evans, vice-president; LeRoy Smith, treasurer; and William Hodges, secretary.

During the year, besides learning much through lectures given by various members, the club was addressed by several eminent authorities. Leon White, a pilot from the Dennison Airport in Quincy, spoke on the advantages of the new Packard Aircraft Diesel Motors; Lieutenant Joshua Crane, a veteran airplane and glider expert, discussed the possibilities of forming a glider club; Stanley Boynton, the young transcontinental flyer, related some interesting experiences he had during his transcontinental flight; and Professor Mayor, a Curtiss-Wright aerial photographer, gave an interesting talk, illustrated by aerial views of Boston and its suburbs. Two recent graduates of Newton High, Lieutenant Charles Parker, of the class of '27, an army flier, and Miss Lorraine Defren, '25, president of the Women's Wing and Prop Club, told of their experiences in flying.

Certainly the Aviation Club, although one of the recently organized units, has proved itself to be an extra-curricular activity of great merit.

The Commercial Club

President, CATHERINE BARRY

Vice-President, MARGUERITE BARRY

Secretary, LOUISE CLANCY

Treasurer, JOSEPHINE SIMONI

WITH a highly-enthusiastic group of boys and girls headed by Miss Ruth Twiss, the Commercial Club had a most successful year. The club officers elected at the first meeting were Catherine Barry, president; Marguerite Barry, vice-president; Louise Clancy, secretary; and Josephine Simoni, treasurer.

In November, three business groups were formed: the Budget, the Health, and the Occupation groups, with a chairman at the head of each. Frances Louloudis, Lillian Frost, and Auldice Wheeler were these heads respectively. At the January meeting the Health group gave its report. Esther Batey had interviewed the Health Department of the John Hancock Company concerning requirements for a position including height, weight, and other physical data. Josephine Simoni reported on a similar visit to Dennison's. The Budget group submitted a carefully arranged paper on how to live on fifteen dollars a week.

In the Occupation group, Anna Kelly spoke on sales girls and waitresses, Isabelle Gilfix on hairdressing, and Marguerite Barry on telephone operators. The last meeting was a party entertained by Mr. Maxim and talented members.

The club is proud of the fact that all material for the year was gathered by the members. Only one outside speaker was invited. Reports of the club's activities have been placed on file, a permanent reminder of the accomplishments of the 1931 organization.

Home Economics Club

President, MARY POPE

Vice-President, ELLEN SCHOLL

Secretary, EVANGELINE BUTTARO

Treasurer, BETTY KERR

THE officers of the Home Economics Club this year were: president, Mary Pope; vice-president, Ellen Scholl; secretary, Evangeline Buttaro; treasurer, Betty Kerr; chairman of the program committee, Claire Buswell.

Miss Alice Bradley of the Fannie Farmer School of Cookery was our guest speaker at the November meeting. The December meeting was a Christmas Party with the girls from the Brookline High School Club as our guests. In February we were entertained at the Brookline High School.

This club is for girls who are taking Home Economics subjects. It is one of the few clubs that has members from the four classes.

Alpha Beta

President, JOHN GALLAGHER

Vice-President, RUTH STEPHENSON

Secretary, CAROLYN RAYE

Treasurer, DEBORAH WING

THE aim of Alpha Beta is to provide an interesting and instructive program which will prepare its members for the Senior English Club, and which will also permit those interested to extend their knowledge beyond the possibilities of the classroom work. This year Alpha Beta has been under the effective leadership of Miss Leathers.

At the November meeting the following officers were elected: John Gallagher, president; Ruth Stephenson, vice-president; Carolyn C. Raye, secretary; and Deborah Wing, treasurer. In December the club attended the play, "The Dust of the Road," given by the Drama Club. On January 28th the annual Freshman-Sophomore Prize-Speaking Contest was held, arranged by a special committee under Miss Lee. The participants in the contest were coached by Miss Lee and Mrs. Bemis. The winners, Richard McEldowney and Virginia Kretschmar, had a choice of books.

The outstanding achievement of the year was Book Week and the fascinating exhibit of literature, old and new, sponsored by Alpha Beta, and supervised by Mr. Rinker. For the April meeting, at the invitation of the English Club, the members joined the juniors and seniors to hear Miss Savage from Macmillan and Company talk on "Books."

The Neophytes

President, WILLIAM BITTENBENDER

Vice-President, WINNIFRED CLARK

Secretary, EMILY ROCKETT

Treasurer, JOSEPH CLEMENT

THE Neophytes, the drama club composed of members of the freshman and sophomore classes, elected at the first meeting in November the following officers: William Bittenbender, president; Winnifred Clark, vice-president; Emily Rockett, secretary; Joseph Clement, treasurer. At this same meeting an amusing comedy, "Two Crooks and a Lady" by Pilot, was presented.

Two try-outs were held during the year, and at all times there was a full quota of forty members.

The presentation of "The Boy Who Found the King," the play given at Christmas time in the auditorium, was one of the club's outstanding achievements. Other one-act plays were "Copy," the inside story of the newspaper work, and "My Lady's Lace," a Dutch play.

At one meeting Mr. Peterson spoke on "The Stage and Its Lighting." At another, Mr. Cole of the Yale School of Drama spoke on the activities in the University Theatre. The season closed with a play presented at the Memorial Day Assembly.

The Stage Committee

Faculty Supervisors, CHARLES W. PETERSON, FRANK MAYO

THE stage committee is one of the hardest-working organizations, as well as one of the most important groups, in Newton High School. In any activity requiring the use of the auditorium or stage, members of this group are present, before, during, and, often, long after the show.

The work makes large demands on the time and energy of the members and the rewards are decidedly abstract. Out of many candidates for 1930-31, the committee includes Ernest Angino, electrician, Edward Offutt, Thomas Mariner, Harold Banks, Ralph Bixby, and Richard Chase. The committee was under the able direction of Mr. Peterson and Mr. Mayo.

When motion pictures requiring a licensed operator were shown, Mr. Peterson was assisted in the booth by Ernest Angino. A motion picture group has been formed to provide operators for the portable projectors of narrow width motion pictures. This group has helped in showing classroom motion pictures during school time and for club programs after school on several occasions.

Football

WITH but few experienced players on the squad, the 1930 Varsity Football team played some exceptionally fine games, particularly in defeating Everett and Waltham. Newton had not won from Everett since 1921, while Waltham had successfully defied us since 1924. These two brilliant victories alone made up for short-comings in some of our other contests.

The opening game at Malden was lost to a more advanced team, 14-0. Against Cambridge High and Latin, Newton presented a team greatly weakened by injuries, and was held to a scoreless tie. In the second League game, Newton astonished a confident Everett team by outplaying them throughout.

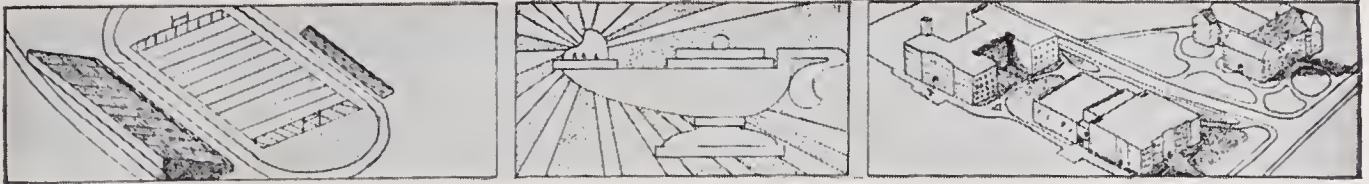

History repeated itself in the Quincy game, when Newton scored six points in the third quarter, only to have Quincy complete two long forward passes in the last period, giving them a 6-6 tie. In one of the best played games of the year, the powerful Somerville team was held to a 7-0 score.

In the Medford game, new combinations of players were tried out, with the result that Medford again walked away with an indifferent game, 25-0. Rindge won 13-7 after an exceedingly bitter contest on both sides. After such a series of reverses, Newton's 7-0 win at Waltham was soul-satisfying.

The Dickinson Memorial Stadium was dedicated Thanksgiving morning between the halves of our final game. In the first half, Brookline scored first, but failed to convert. Thereafter, throughout the first half, Newton thoroughly outplayed their heavier rivals, scoring a touch-down and adding the extra point to lead 7-6. In the third and fourth periods, the lighter Newton team gradually faded before a smashing offense, Brookline finishing with a 38-7 score.

Baseball

THE 1931 edition of the Newton Baseball Team opened the year like a potential League champion. In the season's first games, Woburn was taken into camp by a score of 7-5, Wakefield by 7-2, which victory was followed by another of 7-4 over Rindge. The next two games were lost to Boston College High and to Everett, 5-4 and 4-1 respectively. The strong Brockton club was defeated 10-7 in a free-for-all game, and Newton took the short end of a close game with Cambridge Latin, 3-2. They didn't like this, so they upset Boston Latin, 4-3, and held Brockton, 3-3 in 7 innings. All the games lost were close games, and if the team goes in and plays baseball, they'll win even those in the future.

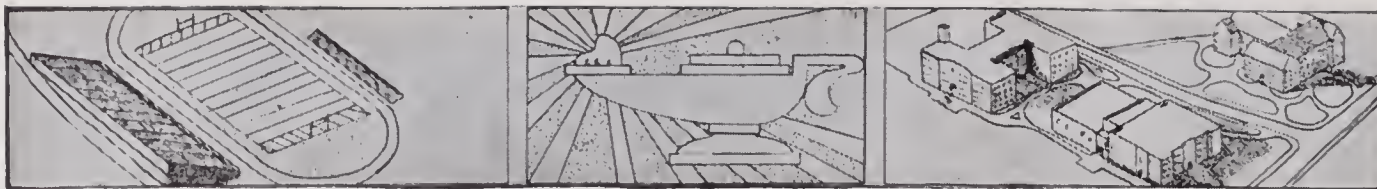

When the call for candidates was first heard, a large number of boys reported, necessitating a decisive cut. When out-door activities started, Butler seemed to be installed at 1st, and Huston had "short" cinched, but the other jobs were "toss-ups." The pitchers soon lined up, namely, Rhodes, Giles, Kraber, and Hildreth, who, also, is first string receiver. "Tommy" Lyons, Hildreth, Champagne, and Lanseed completed the battery. "Billy" Mason has lately supplanted Antonellis at 2nd, and Appleyard has displaced Colby at 3rd, sending Colby to the outfield. So far Rhodes, Mullen, Sharp, Dyer, and Colby have been patrolling the "garden."

To date, Huston has shown the most consistent batting and brilliant fielding, with Butler, Rhodes, and Mullen slamming them for extra bases. Appleyard and Colby each have had one field day, one getting 3 hits out of 4, the other 3 out of 3.

The games remaining to be played are with Everett, Somerville, Waltham, Rindge, Quincy, Cambridge Latin, Brookline, and Somerville. The team has a fair chance of winning the League if it plays "heads-up" baseball and gets the old team spirit working at top speed.

Ice Hockey

THIS year's hockey team, although losing all but one letter man did not fare so badly in the stiff competition offered by its opponents. It inaugurated its first year at the Boston Garden by losing only one game out of six, and that to the championship Melrose sextet.

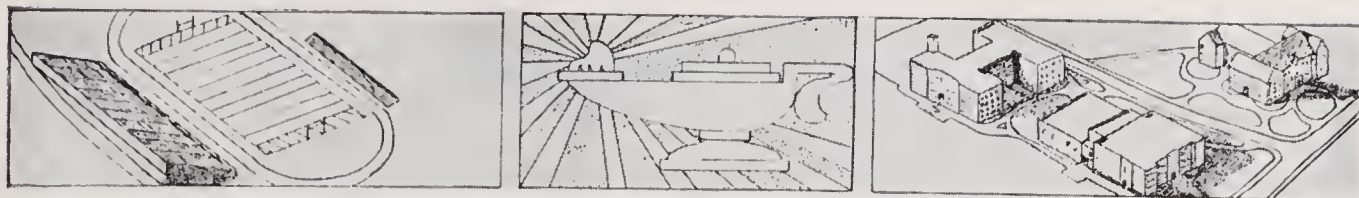

Newton won the series with its non-league teams by winning three games from Boston English High, Middlesex, and Andover, and losing by a narrow margin to Boston Commerce and Harvard seconds. The team was at its best in the Andover and Harvard second games. The Andover game was won by the score of 1-0 through a solo dash by the elongated, hard-working Charlie Butler, with Frannie Chase starring in all departments of the game. Against the strong Harvard team Newton reached its peak. Outstanding in this hard-fought contest were the steady right wing, Kelly, and the ever-pressing "Red" Blackler.

In League competition Newton won five games, tied three, and lost one to Rindge, Arlington, Stoneham, and Melrose. The most interesting games were those in the Garden. Newton showed its scoring ability when it downed Woburn 7-1, Colby, one of the League's high scorers, accounting for three of the goals.

Melrose showed its championship qualities in defeating the fighting Newton team 4-0, Sostilio and Skillings doing noble work on the defense.

The team will lose not only its captain, George Hildreth, but also Appleyard, Mason, and Hannigan through graduation, but Blackler, Champagne, Kelly, Skillings, Guild, Carvelli, and Sostilio will form a strong foundation for next year's squad.

Indoor Track

THIS year's indoor track team not only finished the most successful season in Newton's history, but also set a record of victories which has, perhaps, never been equalled by a Greater Boston school. The string of consecutive dual meet victories continued unbroken for the third year, and the Orange and Black won three of its four Interscholastic attempts and placed second in the other.

The season was started with a practice competition with the Alumni, and it speaks well for the quality of Newton graduates that they were able to swamp by a 56-26 score a team which later proved so outstanding. In the first regular meet of the season, Newton beat Medford at the Boston Y. M. C. A. track, 50-27. Watertown was defeated here the next week, 43-29. Then Newton, without Green, Holmes, and Colligen, turned back Country Day, 51-21. In the first half of the dual meet with Brookline, on their outdoor boards, the Garden City took the lead, 52 $\frac{2}{3}$ -24 $\frac{1}{3}$ . Captain Green took one-third of the events, the hurdles and both jumps, giving Newton eight out of the nine first places. Two weeks later, the job was finished with a grand total of 103 $\frac{2}{3}$ -50 $\frac{1}{3}$ , a high score for the meeting which will probably never be equalled.

At the Northeastern Interscholastics, Newton duplicated its '29 victory by edging Brockton.

Then Newton scaled the heights of track competition by taking the B. A. A. games, the "private school event," last won by a public school about a quarter of a century ago. Unfortunately the achievement was marred by an official's error in forcing the Huntington-Worcester relay to skip a lap — a mistake which gave them first and second respectively in the event and in the meet. However, at Huntington's suggestion, the relay points were discarded and the games awarded to Newton, who had been leading till the very last. At Andover, the Orange and Black won again.

In the State meet, Newton was surprisingly nosed out by Boston English, who sprang unexpected firsts in the 300 and 600. Here, the Orange and Black placed in all but two events, showing a remarkably well-balanced team. Besides Holmes's new school record in the dash, Colligen set a new mark with a shot put of 49' 10".

Basketball

AFTER the smoke had cleared from its fifth year of basketball competition, our team came out with four wins and nine losses. These figures do not impress, seen in black and white, but taken in comparison with the averages of the preceding years, it can easily be seen that Newton is tightening up and is headed upwards. Much of the credit is due to the coaching of Frank Simmons who took over the reins for 1931.

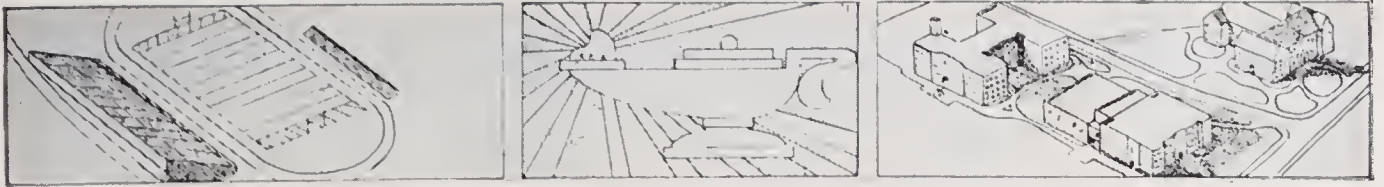

This year's five seems to have been very temperamental; it could put up a marvelous exhibition, as it did against Rindge, and then taste bitter defeat at the hands of Everett, whom Rindge had beaten decisively. The season started auspiciously when we bowed to the strong Watertown team by only three baskets. With this behind its back, Milton and Westboro were taken to the tune of 35-18 and 22-12, respectively.

In League competition Newton fared badly, at times through "breaks," at others, through late starts. The best brand of basketball was usually shown away from home. Everett, Somerville, and Rindge took two victories each, and we split with Cambridge Latin.

The coming sophomore, Huston, was not to be denied, and he gained a regular berth; Seaver, although slow in starting, showed up well toward the end of the season. Weidig and Weatherbee, both new, and also Captain Bailey ended their playing years at Newton with this season; Jones, Patterson, Gulian, Dyer, Vassalotti, Huston, and Quinlan should form a strong nucleus for next year.

The second team, like last year's, won a good part of its games, being very strong defensively.

Cross Country

AT the completion of only its second year of participation, Newton has risen to the front ranks of cross-country competition. The team this year defeated Stoneham and Arlington, old-timers at the sport, and although beaten in a dual meet with Quincy, placed third at Harvard, ahead of the latter. The stars of the team have been Capt. Vincent Signore and George "Candy" Lamb.

The damp, chilly weather during the first race, at Stoneham, found Captain Vin at his best, and the only one able to maintain the galling pace over the hills. However, George Lamb, with a fine finish, was able to come in fairly close behind, with Gus Signore and Ted Murray third and fourth, and Joe Pescosolido tenth, for a 20-35 victory. Vin's winning time was only ten seconds from the record of 12.11.

In the second meet, at Newton, Quincy nipped the Orange and Black, 31-26. Lamb just failed to beat Smeaton, a Quincy lad, with Agostino and Vincent fourth and fifth, Murray eighth, and Art Quincy twelfth.

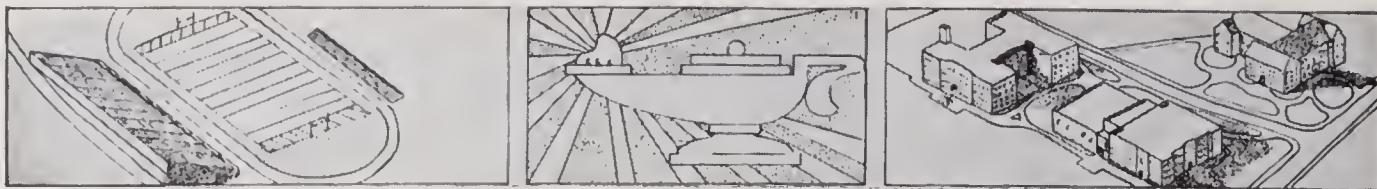

In the last dual run of the season, O'Neil of Arlington ran his home course in such fast time that he broke the record by fifty-one seconds, and forced Lamb and the two Signores also to break the former record in keeping him in sight. Murray finished seventh, and Douglas Chalmers came in tenth to clinch a 26-29 victory.

The climax of the season came in the Harvard Interscholastics, where LaSalle School of Providence finished first, with Arlington taking second and the Massachusetts championship, by nosing out Newton, 100-101. George Lamb did some fine running for his first season to take sixth, first in front of Gus Signore.

Capt. Vincent Signore, his brother, Agostino, George Lamb, Theodore Murray, and Arthur Quincy were awarded letters. Others who ran were Douglas Chalmers, Joseph Pescosolido, Richard Jarrell, Everett Smith, and Jack Crossette.

Outdoor Track

HAVING entered the Worcester Polytechnic Interscholastics, the outdoor track team beat out the other schools participating by scoring  $29\frac{1}{2}$  points. Captain Milton Green broke the meet record in the running broad, jumping  $21' 2''$ , and equaled the meet record in the 220-yard low hurdles. He was individual high scorer of the meet by tallying  $11\frac{1}{2}$  points of Newton's total. Walter Holmes took first in the 100-yard dash.

Newton again proved its championship calibre by taking first place in Class B at the Harvard Interscholastics. Captain Green was again among the high scorers by winning, and setting a new record for the 120-yard low hurdles, and placing second in the broad jump. The meet was in Lawrence High's hands until Douglas Sloane took a second in the 220-yard dash, the final event. His 4 points gave Newton the trophy and the title of State Champions on the cinders.

Newton has still some severe struggles in the meets with Brookline and Boston English High School.

The Fitchburg Relay Carnival will end an outdoor season which is hoped to be, as was the indoor season, the best Newton has ever enjoyed.

Golf Team

Captain and Manager, ROBERT HUNTER

Coach, FREDERICK HUSSEY

NEWTON'S golf team this year is composed of many veterans, so the prospects for a successful season are very good. In addition, two practice rounds at Commonwealth and Brae Burn Country Clubs have brought out some fine new material. The leading scores on these courses (April 28 and 30) are, respectively, Hunter, 76, 77; Yerardi, 81, 81; Herrington, 89, 81; Russell, 85, 85; Gates, 90, 82; and Hannigan, 88, 86.

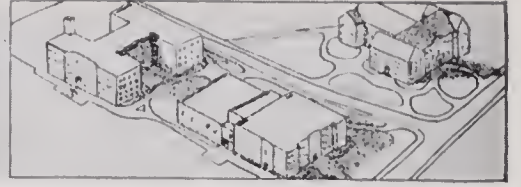

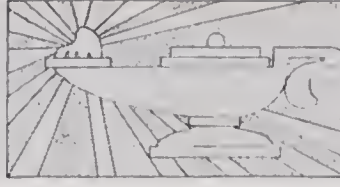

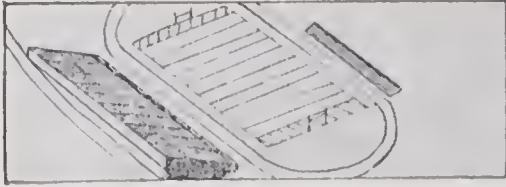

In the first match with Weymouth, at the South Shore Country Club, May 1, Newton missed making a clean sweep by one-half a point, winning  $8\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ . With this fine start the boys were all set for the Arlington sextet, which had proved its strength by defeating the powerful Thayer Academy team; and, on May 4, at Arlmont Country Club, our team repeated its victory by the same margin  $8\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ .

The next match is to be played with the Tufts freshmen at Unicorn Country Club on May 7, and on May 9, the traditional match with Phillips-Exeter Academy. Usually Newton has come out at the small end of these encounters, but this year it is hoped that the score will be reversed. The rest of the schedule is equally difficult; but, judging by the material and past performance, these two victories ought to be repeated with equally wide margins.

The team is composed of Captain Hunter, Herrington, Yerardi, Russell, and Hannigan, with Gates, Kennedy, and Kelly, making the competition keen for the last places.

Tennis Team

NEWTON once again has a ranking tennis team, having been beaten up to this time, only by a strong Milton Academy team on the latter's courts. One-sided victories over Middlesex, Country Day, and Malden have already been scored by Newton. The Interscholastic Tournament is Newton's objective, and Newton will certainly be ranked a favorite to retain the trophy which it has won for the past four years.

We are fortunate in having an unusually large number of better than average tennis players at Newton, and for this reason we have organized a second team which ranks favorably with other high school's first teams. A schedule has been arranged for this team, and it has already won its first matches. With this valuable experience, Newton need not worry about its material for the next few years, and it hopes to keep up the remarkable record of the past ten years.

Mr. Taylor, our coach, has done a great job his first year and has kept all the boys eager to play and to improve their games.

The first team is composed of four of last year's championship team and two new-comers. The team has played in this order: Franny Chase, captain; Oscar Jarrell, Dick Dunnell, Win Sharp, René Avigdor, and Don Wales.

Girls' Field Hockey

WITH six veterans, the girls' field hockey team began practice in the fall under the leadership of Miss Lucille Burnham. We met Needham in the first game of the season which they won. However, the Newton seconds evened the count by winning 1-0. We retaliated in the game with Waltham by winning both encounters, the first varsity 1-0, the second 6-0.

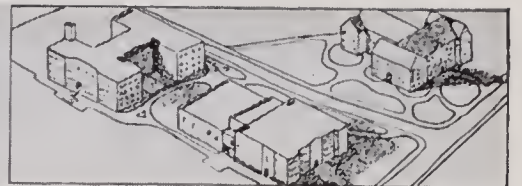

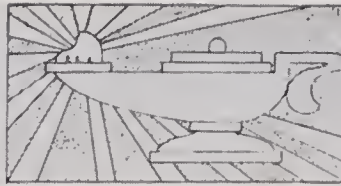

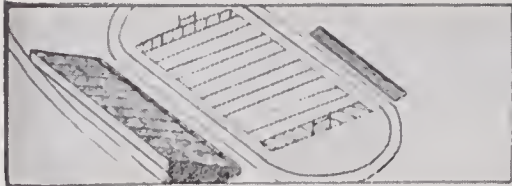

The most surprising event of the season was our victory over Watertown for the first time in many years to the tune of 2-1 for the first varsity and 1-0 by the seconds. In the first game in two years with Brookline, the team, though trying valiantly to win, was defeated 2-0. But the second varsity, to complete their perfect season, won with a victory of 5-0. The annual classic with the alumnae could not be played, due to inclement weather.

Of the three girls, Betty Tucker, Catherine Maloney, and Jean Wilson, representing Newton in the tryouts for the All-Boston Field Hockey Association Honorary Team, Jean Wilson was selected for the position of center half-back. In the final encounter for the class championships, the seniors beat the juniors in a closely contested game 2-1.

At an all-girls' assembly in December, the hockey awards were distributed to Capt. Jean Wilson, Barbara Goodridge, Elizabeth Street, Grace Thompson, Catherine Martin, Adelaide Fogg, Betty Tucker, Catherine Maloney, Margaret Fletcher, Elizabeth Quirk, Mary Kibbe, Gertrude Welch, Elizabeth Kershaw, Edith Wheeler, and Hilda Kirby.

Girls' Basketball

APPROXIMATELY 200 girls came out for basketball this season and everyone was placed on a team. The system used this year was the same as that of last year with a few variations. The classes were divided into numerous class league teams, which played within their classes, the winning team of which was awarded numerals. From these league teams, the class teams were picked for interscholastic competition. The following people were elected to captaincy: Elizabeth McCready, captain of the sophomores; Julia Harvey, of the juniors; and Elizabeth Hayden, of the seniors.

In the first game, which was held at Cambridge Latin, the three Newton teams were successful. At Watertown the following week the Newton seniors and juniors suffered defeat, but the sophomores defeated their opponents, 13-7. Newton next went to Needham and repeated the brilliant playing with which they crushed the three Cambridge teams. The scores were seniors, 24-13; juniors, 49-11; and sophomores, 36-20, all in favor of Newton. The home teams then entertained Waltham and brought the competition between schools to a very successful conclusion by defeating all the Waltham teams.

At the completion of the class games, the Honorary Varsity was chosen. This team defeated their two opponents, which were the Faculty and Alumnae, with crushing scores, thus bringing to a close a very successful season.

Because of the excellent training given the girls by Miss Peterson, faculty manager, it is possible to expect an even better season next year.

Girls' Tennis Team

ALTHOUGH no definite girls' tennis team has been chosen yet, the prospects of a good season with Capt. Helen Chase, Eleanor Stearns, Grace Thompson, and Virginia Josselyn as veterans, seem very favorable. The team will be composed of seven regulars and a substitute, of which the probable line-up will be: Grace Thompson as No. 1 player, Helen Chase as No. 2, and Peggie Kneeland as No. 3.

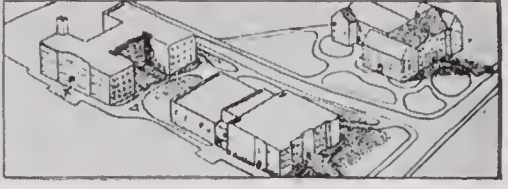

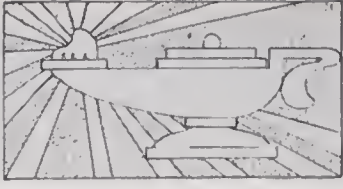

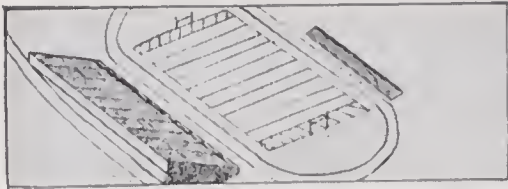

The schedule of five matches has been arranged as follows: May 14, with Needham at Newton; May 21, with Winchester at Newton; May 28, with Lexington at Newton; June 4, with Watertown at Newton; June 11, with Brookline at Brookline. The fact of having many home games certainly ought to make a successful team.

Instead of running the fall tournament like those in former years, a new method of playing one set in the first two rounds and in the remaining rounds two sets out of three, proved rather successful, although the tournament was not finished on account of the very poor weather.

However, this tournament in which Grace Thompson, Constance Ober, Helen Chase, Peggie Kneeland, Margaret Fletcher, and several others made a fine showing, is expected to be finished early in the spring, while the usual spring tournament will be progressing. The winners and runners up of the two tournaments are all candidates for the team.

The Adventures of a Modern Ali Baba

(Taken from the memoirs of the Hon. Gilbert Chandler, Esq., Mayor of Bemis, in the year 1946.)

He stood on the curb, immaculately dressed, faultless of carriage, . . . a man among men. One might have called him the veritable ruler of this great metropolis in which he stood. He glanced hastily at the wide portal which yawned into his smiling face. He immediately crossed the broad avenue and mounted the pavement on the opposite side, all the time observing the magnificent edifice which, supported by highly polished Corinthian pillars, with large marble steps leading to the vaulted archway loomed up before him. The wide gateway was brusquely opened for his entrance, and he found himself in a luxuriously furnished hallway, so long that it seemed to lose itself in the distance. Famous mural paintings lined the high walls, as did also ancient shields and swords of bygone military heroes.

A servant sprang to his side to relieve him of his coat, hat, and walking stick. Another door was immediately opened, and he entered into a chamber, dazzling to the eye. Innumerable waiting attendants sprang to their feet to salute such a distinguished personage. Eyeing one of them in particular, he walked toward him with measured tread; looked him haltingly in the eye for one lengthy moment; then said, in an indifferent tone of voice, "Haircut and shave, please."

Class Prophecy

AS the morning sun poured over the hills and gilded the spires of the church in East Hemstitch, a portly farmer, Dick Shaw, trickled down the back steps and “oozed” into the barn, the while chanting gaily over his shoulder to his buxom wife, Barbara Livermore.

“Let’s get the chores done so’s we can make the 8.17. We’ll see the city in one of those there taxis afore the big shindig this evening.”

A Ford “shimmied” past, piloted by Sewall Logan, M.D., and the eminent Judge George Bartlett. Miss Cynthia Jump pulled in on Track 9 and lowed for the morning milk.

After the many hurried preparations, the couple were finally deposited in the day coach and had handed over their tickets to the aisle-blocking conductor, Alfred Volante. When the train started into the Metropolis, they dazedly hailed Dick Vittum, the nonchalant taxi-driver, and were worried through the traffic to the Mal Hatch Shoppe, where gowns were displayed by Marjorie Munsil, Marion Greeley, Virginia Volpe, and Florence Green as models.

The taxi was again whirled around the city, but was stopped on its journey by police officer, Albert Haberstroh, to enable a line of cantankerous children from Miss Denham’s School for Girls to cross the street. One of the notable events of the tour occurred in passing the opera house and seeing a sign announcing that Ray Blair, the noted operatic bass, would soon give a recital of his various roles; also a movie palace, advertising Richard Kemper and Elizabeth Drowne in “The Second Version of Min and Bill” and the “Five Melody Sisters” — Weed, Weeks, Wheeler, Whitney, and Woodworth.

When the hotel was finally reached, the maitre d’hotel, Don Bowen, greeted them with real cordiality; and Walter Amesbury, loaded down with their bags, took them to their rooms. But at this moment the fair wife found her husband attracted to the charming chamber-maid, who gave her name as Mary Kibbe.

Our friends dined sumptuously from Chef Howie Pierce’s menu and then wended their way through the hotel lobby, stopping to look at the book stalls where they saw delightful books of fairy tales by Kiffie Martin, and Lois Stafford’s pretentious volumes of essays.

At the farther end of the hall they encountered the genial host, Tom Mariner, who in turn presented them to the noted guests assembled in the lounge conversing in low tones. Among the most noted were the following: Walter Abbott, the renowned professor who was twice offered the chair of electro-dynamics at Sing-Sing; George Defren, highest-paid mattress tester in the country; and Perry Elrod, sports writer for the New York Times with Miss Jessie Bourneuf, the national ping-pong champion. The guests were just assembling when some one heard a faint giggle in the distance which eventually ended in an ungodly “tee-hee,” and which was found to have burst from Betty Tucker, who came tripping down the hall with her “side-kick,” Helen Perkins, who is successfully running a home for aged cats. The next arrivals were Mrs. and Mr. David Quimby, accompanied by the outstanding funeral director, Bernard Litchfield, and Margaret Huntley, the breath-taking equestrienne of Ringling Brothers’ Circus.

Leroy J. Benoit, sail-maker and mast-hand on board the Submarine S-10, and Charles Jack, a surgeon reputed to have left the most saws in his patients, made a spectacular entrance, followed by Miss Lois Nivling, leading society woman, whose fiance was away on business.

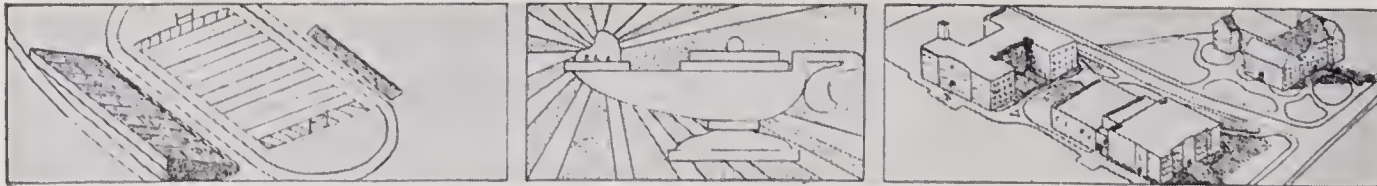

Our friends were getting exasperated when the demure Lisa Kolb came to the rescue by introducing Win Sharp and his famous Mellon’s Food Orchestra — such a bouncing lot; Ken Young was rewarded, after rendering a splendiferous tenor solo, by a hefty sigh from Isabel Williams.

Miss Dorothy Barton, the scintillating red head, fluttered on to the scene in time for the buffet supper, so efficiently served by John and Jean Richardson. Leaving Barbara enthralled by Peggy Kirby, Dick sought the buffet to fetch her a fruit cocktail, but was neatly displaced by Dot Giles and contented himself with a bucket of potato chips and a bowl of lobster salad.

“Eleven o’clock!” shrilled Barbara. “Quick, Tweetums, or we’ll miss the last train home.”

“Oh joy!” yodelled Jean Wilson, catching the salad and chips, as Dick let go everything and raced Barbara to the door.

Accurate Analysis of Deadlier Sex

New element: Women.

Symbol: Wo

Occurrence: May be found wherever man is.

Physical properties: All colors and sizes. Always appears in disguised condition. Surface of face seldom unprotected by coating of powder. Boils at nothing and may freeze at any moment. However, it melts when properly treated. Very bitter if not used correctly.

Chemical properties: Extremely active. Possess great affinity for gold, silver, platinum, and precious stones of all kinds. Violent reaction when left alone by men. Ability to absorb all sorts of expensive foods. Turns green with envy when placed next to better appearing variety. Ages rapidly. Fresh variety has great magnetic attraction.

Note:— Highly explosive, and likely to be dangerous in inexperienced hands. Must be carefully handled.

Roy Benoit: "There's a man with a suitcase waiting outside."

Mr. Palmer: "Well, tell him I've got a suitcase."

Dr. Land: "Do you do much studying?"

Fine: "Oh yes; you see, I'm trying to get ahead in this world."

Dr. Land: "Well, you certainly need one."

Newtonite Reporter Interviews the Family Skeleton

With the customary grumbling about tough assignments and too much homework to do for the next day, I shuffled from the Newtonite office and started for the Tech building to get the latest dope from the family skeleton. After falling down the four flights of the Classical building and getting hit by three of the swinging doors of the Tech building, to say nothing of being yelled at five times by different teachers that I was walking on the grass, I arrived at the Biological lab and was informed by the curator thereof (Miss Mayo) that Mr. Bones was at liberty to see me.

"Where is he at?" I asked rather ungrammatically, but quite effectively, while breaking three pencil leads trying to get my notebook ready.

"His office is right behind that door, back there," replied Miss Mayo, marking a neat "F" on the paper she was correcting.

I proceeded to open the indicated portal and was immediately greeted by a cold and bony hand which gripped mine in as warm a grasp as one could expect from a skeleton.

"I am very glad to see you," he chattered. "There are a number of things which should be discussed, and we might as well get right down to doing it. Kindly escort me to the front of the room where we shall have more space. You will find a convenient ring on top of my head."

I seized him by the hook and conducted him to the blackboard where I hung him comfortably from a handy nail. He (I hope I'm not wrong in calling him "he") inserted a piece of chalk between his jaws, picked up a pointer that was nearby and struck a debonair attitude. He then asked if I had a match, but I informed him that smoking was not allowed in school and that a piece of chalk would be enough to make even a skeleton sick. So he dropped his high-hat intentions and assumed a rather informal posture with his legs tucked comfortably behind his cervical vertebrae and his thumbs inserted where his vest should be, but which were in reality hooked just above his floating ribs.

We talked informally for a few moments about his business. It was all technical, which, for the benefit of the Freshmen, I shall omit. However, from the general run of his discourse I gathered that he had not been hit by the depression. Following this the conversation led to the discussion of the various events of the year, the reports of which, he said, had been brought to him indirectly by the students of the room. He remarked that at the Thanksgiving Day game, on hearing all the cheering he thought the ovation was for him and was just about to make a public appearance when he remembered his rather nude condition.

Finally, I started firing questions at him which he answered quite readily, the while gently tapping the top of his head with his femur. These are some of the questions and answers:

Q. Mr. Bones, what do you think of politics? A. Well, all I can say is that if they elect the President of the United States as they do class presidents — (an emotion of pride here caused him to swell so much that it was impossible for him to speak further, and as I easily saw the answer, I passed to the next query.)

Q. What do you think of Prohibition? A. I am an ardent dry, have been one for some time and shall probably be dryer yet as the time goes on.

Q. What about love? A. Love is a humbug. . . . Well, at least it's a bug. Most everyone seems to have it.

Q. Were you ever in love? A. Ah, yes! . . . but she one day fell and broke into a few thousand pieces. They were unable to save her, so she was ground into bone-meal and since then she has been leading a life of service fertilizing a lawn in Newton Highlands.

At this point in the interview his emotion seemed to overwhelm him, and I saw that it would be wise to leave him. Therefore I rose and gathered his clammy fingers in a warm grip and patted him on his cerebellum by way of companionship.

As I tip-toed out, I caught a last glimpse of him, strumming a popular air on his ribs and singing dolefully to himself.

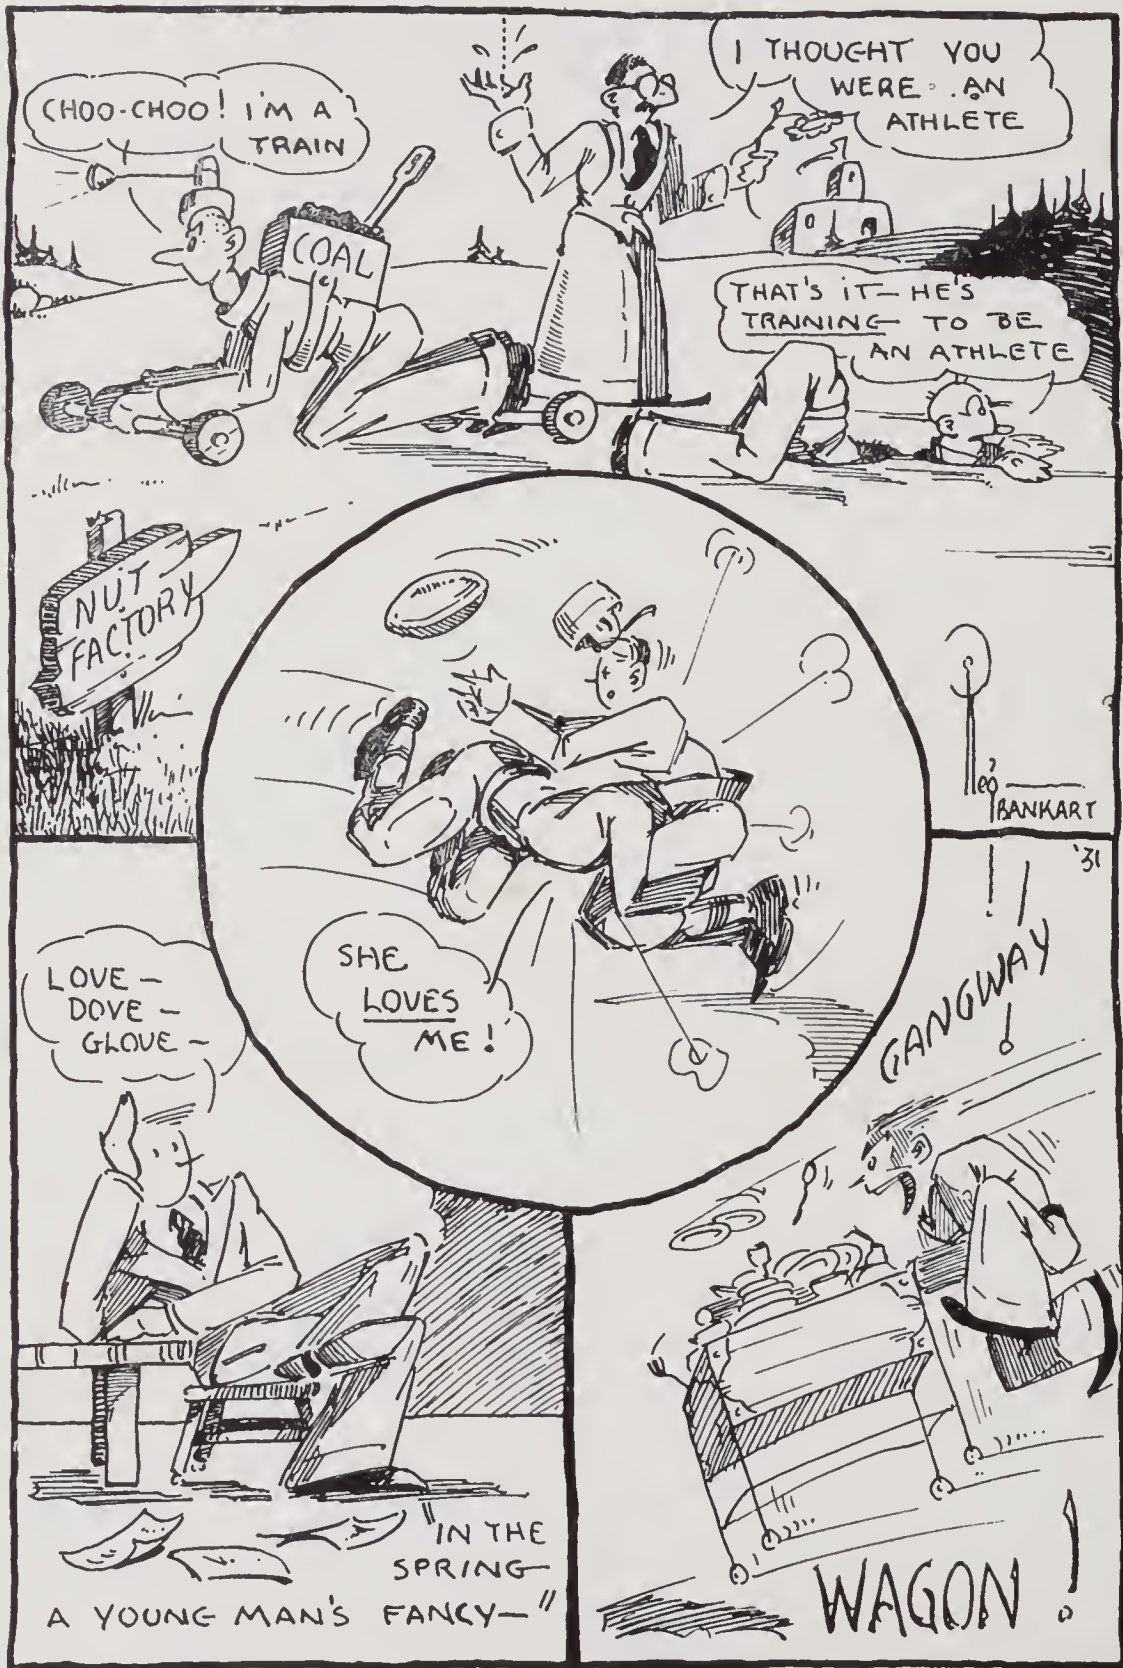

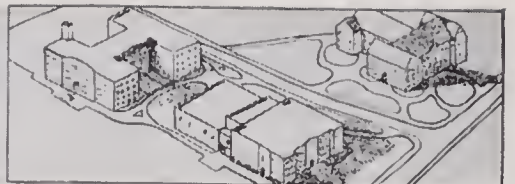

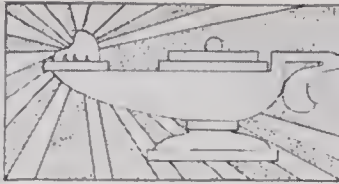

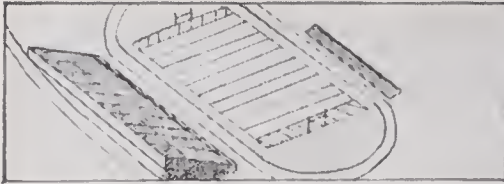

"What's he doing these days?"

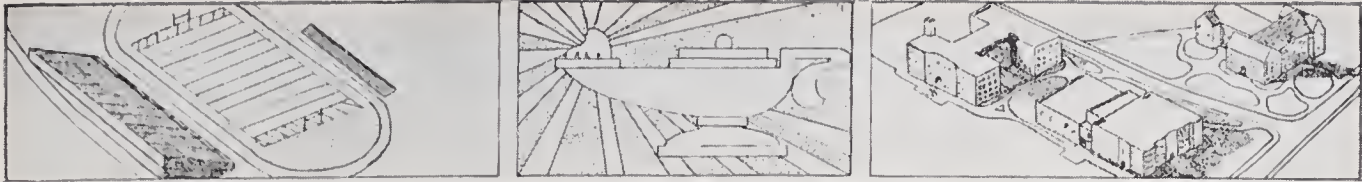

"Oh, he's an optician."

"Say, I thought he was a chiropodist."

"Yeh, you see he started at the bottom and worked himself up."

Our Athletic Girls

After having passed an afternoon of perplexity, watching a girls' basketball game in the gym, we found ourselves unable to unearth the object of the contest. Nevertheless, we followed the activities of an out-standing star and made note in tabular form:

1. Fixed her hair 56 times.
2. Showed her "esprit de corps" by trying spasmodically to get ball 6 times.
3. Called Mary "a fool" 3 times for not passing her the ball, because she "could have got a basket."
4. Continually searched the audience to see if Jimmy was watching her star. (About 684 times.)
5. Attempted to stuff middy into bloomers 298 times.
6. Pulled up stockings 158 times; tied shoe-strings 46 times.
7. Leaned against wall 26 times so she "could get her breath after playing so hard."
8. Jumped up and down innumerable times, waved her arms and screamed at short intervals.

 Catherine Martin reminds one of Norma Shearer?
 That the writer of this article had the D. T.'s?

Dick Shaw (after the dance): "Let's take a walk outside."

Barb Livermore: "You boys have the funniest way of saying what you really mean!"

How to Tell a Senior

No. 1 — The Latin Book Test. Place before the suspected person a copy of Virgil's "Aeneid." Open to difficult translation. Tell him to read it. If he cringes away from the book, mumbles to himself incoherently, and calls upon the Gods to save him, you will know he is a language senior preparing for a College Board with no hope of passing.

No. 2 — Lunchroom Test. This test is more easily applied than the first in that the conditions are generally more favorable. Watch the person in the lunchroom. If he seems to walk about the lunchroom in a daze, then suddenly jumps into the air kicking his heels while he howls with glee, you will know that he is an erratic senior, over-exuberant at the approaching June graduation.

No. 3 — Business Department Test. Extremely practicable for testing students of the business departments. Lead the culprit gently to a typewriter. (Do not use brute force, as he may break down and weep.) If he is able to pound out one sentence with less than seven mistakes, then begins to tear the sheets up in rage, he is only a senior who has crumbled under the severe mental strain.

No. 4 — Group Test. After a group has shown a month of despondency and lack of ambition, call them to the lecture hall and ask them to take notes on an address, "The Advantage of Being a Senior." After the lecture, collect notes. If you find on them a conglomeration of mathematical figures or hieroglyphics, your suspicions are correct. They are only seniors trying to figure out how to meet the fees for class dues, tickets to senior prom, banquet, etc.

No. 5 — Class Analysis Test. Highly recommended for its unique procedure and satisfying results. Observe the actions of the suspect in an American History class. If he appears to doze off several times and concludes by falling asleep, he is simply a senior who cannot keep awake any longer after doing nothing for four years.

No. 6 — Shin-Kicking Test. If, on the last day of school, you see a maniac cavorting and gambolling over the school's greenswards, pulling up shrubs, digging up the turf, breaking the windows with an air rifle, and especially kicking the stern faculty in the shins, he may be immediately recognized as a revengeful senior who has gone crazy over the fact that he no longer must put up with Newton High teachers.

Exposed At Last!

Newton's Lesser Clubs

At the next weekly meeting of the Up-To-The-Second Club, Mr. Winthrop (Mournful) Stiles, authority on styles (and how) and the fair sex, will deliver an oration (at the rate of 5 words a minute) on the pertinent subject, "The Long and Short of Dresses," or "Why Cover Up the Truth." The present mode will be defended (as if it needed to be) by John Mitchell, a prominent member, who has made an exhausting study of the subject, after which the Tiddlewink Tournament will progress with its usual vigor and thrills. We learn that, at present, Two-Gill Chandler is the chief Tiddler with an amazing number of baskets.

The Ancient Order of Fevered Canine Feeders will hold its annual Charity Ball for the benefit of Dyspeptic Dog Devourers on the fourth floor of Mike's Goulash Joint under the poisonous direction of Robert (Shrimp) Lowstuter, master of ceremonies, house detective, and ambassador from Walla Walla. At the last meeting, the organization was honored by the presence of Ino Mistuff who, by courtesy of The American Weenie Co., "Incorporated," endeavored to inspire his listeners with the message, "Bigger and Better Bologna." The ominous reports that stray dogs in the neighborhood are becoming even scarier was elucidated upon by Kenneth (Pink) Young, who was dismally prophetic about the future activities of the Club unless immediate action was taken. To meet this situation, a delegation headed by "Pouting Fred" Kershaw, was appointed to visit the City Pound with full purchasing power.

At the last meeting of the Y. L. S. C. (Young Ladies' Sewing Circle), a pink tea was held most successfully. President Martha Burnham, in welcoming a new member, Miss Adele Moore, said, "This is just the type of new blood that this club needs to sustain our highest standards and break away from the frivolous activities of the age."

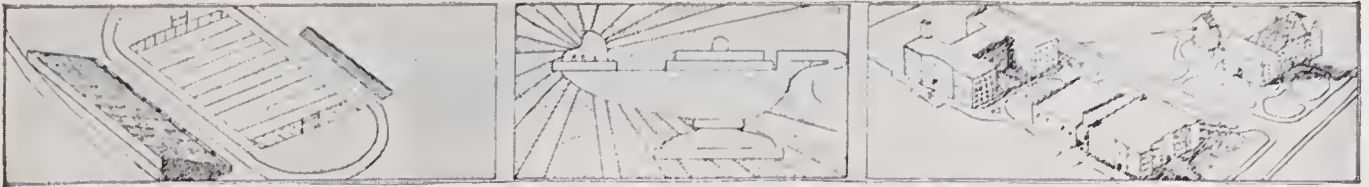

Douglas (Wise-Crack) Chalmers, B.A.A., (baa) B.F.D. and Leavenworth No. 9999, will be the guest speaker at the next reunion of the N. H. S. Branch of Felice Barefact's International Love Lorners. Mr. Chalmers' subject before the mixed gathering will be, "Why Love Flies Out of the Window" or "Use Pepso-dent Mouth Antiseptic Twice a Day." Charles (Butterfly) Fowler will touch briefly on "What a Young Man Should Not Know." Helen (Studios) Stevenson will read another chapter to the club from "Love A-Miss," a charming new novel just written by Sewall Logan.

The Ping-pong Players, a group of earnest young men desirous of participation in a sport which combines the tenacity of football, the skill of tennis, the cunning of baseball, and the excitement of basketball, have entered wholeheartedly in the Spring Ping-pong Tournament. Match play has been quite strenuous of late. Bill Robinson succumbed last Friday in a semi-final match with Arthur Williams, and was brought around after much frantic relief work. Ray (Sunny) Gelinas, in endeavoring to return the celluloid sphere with a touch of English, strained his wrist to the extent that he will probably be laid up for a week. The final match for the trophy cup will undoubtedly take place between the ponderous yet persevering Joe (Basso) Manning and the brilliant Marion Hicks, the only woman's hope and contestant.

Ode to a Freshman

He entereth inside the massive portals.
 A bewildered expression cometh over his face; he shaketh as if with ague.
 Howbeit, he taketh courage unto himself; he tryeth to conceal his quaking heart with boldness.
 Upper classmen mocketh him; upon all sides doth they chide him.
 They elboweth him from the sidewalks; hither and thither is he shoveth;
 They laugheth at his ungainliness; pranks befalleth him.
Forth is he deprived of lunchroom space; sad is his lot.
 Nowhere can he lay his miserable carcass.
 There is great gnashing of teeth and wailing; he is confounded;
 With loud lamenting, he grieveth to his teachers; alas, they can do naught:
 There beith but one balm for his sores;
 He knoweth that in four toilsome years hence, he will wax in importance and smirk at those to whom he once bore resemblance.
